NEWS SUMMARY.

A child, lost three days after the evacuation of Richmond, has just been restored to its mother. There is great distress in Havana, and several houses have been opened for gratuitous distribu-

JENNIE BURNS, aged only thirteen years, has been lecturing on temperance in Washington County, New York, with remarkable success. A manufactory of printing types from vulcanized rubber has been started at Dalston, England. The type is lighter than the metal kind, costs only onethird as much, and is said to equal it in quality

At the banquet given to the congressional partyin Nashville, Tenn., General Frank CHEATHAM, late of the Confederate army, when called on. as President of the meeting, for a speech, refused, but offered as a toast, "Here's to the Union."

It is generally conceded that the test case as to whether Alabama is a State in the Union will be decided by the Supreme Court in the affirmative, and this decision will upset entirely, and perhaps in advance, the project for turning that and the other States into territories. A suit of importance to distillers has been heard at Buffalo, New York, a distiller being charged with solling mash which contained sufficient alcohol to make it liable to the tax on whiskey as vinegar mash. Decision deferred for one month. The New York Heraid states that for the first three months of Ristoni's engagement in America. ending with the 20th of December, GRAU aid her, as her share of the receipts, free from expenses, about Christmas plum. Two celebrated race horses, Dan Rice and Lamplighter, have been seized by the Collector of Detroit. They were owned and kept in Canada, but frequently taken to Detroit, ostensibly for pleasure drives, and recently sold without the payment

The girl-whipping schoolmaster of Cambridge, says the Baltimore Transcript of the 5th, has received $350 from his friends as a testimonial. Such is Massachusetts! She sheds tears and makes lamentations over the fancied wrongs of imaginary negro in Alabama, and rewards her own womenwhippers with purses of $350 each. The Atlanta Intelligencer, of the 4th, says: For many days past the shipments of mules through this city has been large. They come from the bluegrass fields of Kentucky, and are about as fine as we have ever sean. They are intended, we learn, for the vast cotton regions of Southwestern Georgia, though large numbers of them are retained for this locality. They are shipped in and out by A countryman appeared in Richmond recently, with a sleigh that completely eclipsed turn out. It consisted of a hogshead, with the side scooped out, placed upon heavy wooden rockers. The head and body of the driver, who looked as snug as a Laplander in furs, only protruded far enough above the opening in the hogshead to allow him to guide his old horse, "Blaze," and avoid running into frailer crafts. We perceive by our foreign files that an actor youngest son of the late JUNIUS BROTUS BOOTH, is inhabitants, numbered only 9602 persons of playing at Edinburgh, and drawing large crowds by his impudent assumption. Mr. JOSEPH BOOTH is not on the stage, and is at present in New York, nor is any member of the family in Europe. We trust that this imposter, who is represented to be whites and 14,316 persons of the colored race. a Mr. HENRY MARBLE, of Leavenworth, will find But since then the colored population has been his just deserts.

the wheat trade of that city, which, it seems, has the Suffrage Bill become a law, large accessions been considerably larger during the last year than it was in 1865, although the wheat crop of Wisconsin was partially a failure last season. The wheat receipts of Milwaukie for 1866 amounted to 12,664.-443 bushels, while those of Chicago, during the same time, were but 11,950,991 bushels, a difference in favor of Milyaukee of 713,457 bushels. Milwaukee may, therefore, still continue to make her boast that she is the largest primary wheat depot in the world.

It is said that at the Christmas dinner at the Five Points House of Industry, New York, eight persons, four gentlemen and four ladies, met to-gether. One of them was a bank clerk, one a lawyer, one in an extensive importing house. Two of the young ladies were genteelly married. All were intelligent and in good positions. Yet all four were picked up in the streets as vagrant children, and were rescued by this institution of mercy. The principal of a leading academy near New little child from one of the most degraded houses

The Wilmington Journal, of the 5th, says : We noticed yesterday that the steamship Pairbanks, from New York, was being ladened at the wharf of the Wilmington and Manchester Railroad. This is indicative of the fact that that company is doing quite a large business in the forwarding line, and have, we learn, generally quite a large quantity of freight for shipment. This company have become forwarders as well as transporters of freight, and do considerable business for the people residing along the line of the road, much to the annoyance of our merchants, who consider it tuet much business taken from their hands by a corporation.

The Wadesboro' Argus, of the 3d, says : "We regret to learn that the relief asked for from the State for the Cheraw and Coalfields Railroad was defeated in the Senate killed by its own friends. In connection with the early completion of the Wilmington, Charlotte and Butherforaton, and the Cheraw and Coalfields Road, we had hoped for much benefit to this section. We do not despair yet, however, that the State will do something to help this company out of the powers of the Executive and Judiciary of the mire. Major Townsend, President of the company, is a man of too much "pluck" to let the matter rest where it is."

The Hartford Courant gives a list of fifteen of the soundest and most wealthy insurance companies in the country, for the purpose of showing how unprofitable the insurance business has been of late. In this list, representing $13,000,000 of capital, only three have their capital unimpaired by losses, and they have only a surplus of about $79,000, on a capital of about $1,000,000. As an offset to this, it must be remembered that the insurance companies have, until recently, been making large gains, and that their present capitals frequently represent earnings declared on stock dividends.

In speaking of the Hon. GARRETT DAVIS, Senator from Kentucky, who earnestly appealed to the Administration and to Congress all through the war, to hold fast to the Constitution, the Journal of Commerce says: "The decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, recently published, on the subject of military commissioners and their jurisdiction, is a remarkable endorsement of the course pursued by Mr. Davis in the Sepate, and should convince the Northern people that it is possible, in times of excitement, to condemn as unpatriotic what is in reality the highest duty and most worthy course of a public man "

A very successful Teachers' Institute was held at Findlay, Ohio, during the last week of December, conducted by Professor T. W. HARVEY, of Painesville, assisted by E. MILLER, of Findlay, Mr. NESTLERODE, of Fostoria, and others. Over one hundred teachers were present, and the proceedings were highly satisfactory to all concerned. Professor Harvey delivered two lectures during the week; one on "Storms," and the other on "Physical Influences," both being characterized by the marked ability which the lecturer possesses On Thursday evening, December 27, the officers elect of the Masonic Lodge of Findlay were installed, Professor HARVEY conducting the ceremony, after which a supper was had at the Court House, and speeches were made by Mr. HARVEY and Rev. J. WYKES, and others.

TUESDAY MORNING, JANUARY 8, 1867.

THE VETO MESSAGE.

We take pleasure in laying before our readers this morning, the message of the President, read vesterday in the United States Senate, giving his reasons for vetoing the District of Columbia Negro Suffrage Bill. Mr. Johnson has now had some experience in the writing of veto messages, and we naturally expected, in an effort of this kind, a powerful and conclusive argument. On reading it over, we found that we had not expected too much. We consider this one of the most important State papers ever issued from any department of our Government. Its principal value lies in the lucid definition here given to the rights and prerogatives of the several co-ordinate branches of Government. The message shows how great the power of Congress is, even when confined within its rightful limits. He makes a strong and timely plea for the Judiciary, apropos of the gathering storm in store for the Supreme Court within the next few weeks. The President, in his argument, takes the Constitution and its binding force as the supreme law of the land as a postulate. He shows that when the vote was taken in December, 1865, to ascertain the voice of the people of the District, 6556 votes were cast in Washington against Negro Suffrage, and only 35 in favor. In Georgetown the vote was 813 against, and only one for the measure. Mr. JOHNSON cannot see why the people residing in the District of Columbia should not enjoy the same right and privilege as the inhabitants of a State or Territory, of making known their will upon matters affecting their social and political condition. They did this through the ballot box, and Congress has disregarded their wishes, and passed this Bill against their will. The spirit of our Constitution requires that the will of the people should be consulted by their legislators. Congress holds the same relation to the District of Columbia as the Legislatures of the several States to the citizens thereof.

The President then shows the inconsistency should be very attractive. The Orchard, covering a space of 30 acres, contains about 5000 Peach trees, 500 Pears, and 700 Apples. There is a good Dwelling House, containing four rooms, with all necessary outbuildings for the accommodation of a family, and houses for the accommodation of laborers. There is a Church, and a Postoffice will soon to established within half a mile of the place. The trees are selected with a special view to the Northern market, and are in full bearing, being from 5 to 8 years old. The most liberal terms will be given to any one bringing skill and capital. There is a Grapery, containing 30 vines, of foreign varieties, under glass, in full bearing, until the last year, when it was neglected. There is a Propagating House and Nursery Bods for fruit and ornamental trees, and about 160 acres of good land for the cultivation of cora and cotton, belonging to the tract, which can be obtained. The Orchard and accessories will be rented or worked upon shares. Apply to JAMES R. PRINGLE, Decomber 13 of representatives from States which deny all that the city bloods have been yet able to suffrage to the colored citizens,-in forcing this measure upon the District of Columbia. and they compel them to try an experiment which their own constituents have thus far refused to do.

The President next draws a comparison between the respective populations of Massachusetts and Columbia. According to the census representing himself as Mr. Joseph Booth, the of 1860, Massachusetts, amongst its 1,281,666 color, and among 339,086 persons over twentyone years of age, only 2602 colored; whereas the District of Columbia contained 60,954 The Milwaukee News has an elaborate article on the disproportion much greaten; and should may be expected from the negroes of the surrounding States.

He next adverts to the entire disqualification of this class of inbabitants for an intelligent discharge of the elective franchise. He says: "The people who are daily witnesses of their mode of living, and who have become familiar with their habits of thought, have expressed the conviction that they are not yet competent to serve as electors, and thus become eligible for office. Yet this Bill extends to them the right of suffrage without discrimination, while in Massachusetts, where they have enjoyed a thorough educational system, a qualification of intelligence is required."

The President still holds the views he expressed a year ago, on several occasions, that n the event of universal suffrage being thrust upon the people, against their expressed wishes, war of races may inevitably be looked for. The President then proceeds to define the respective functions and powers of the several Departments of Government, according to the letter and spirit of the Constitution. The power of the Executive, he says, is negative and conservative, to serve as a check upon unconstitutional, hasty and improvident legislation. The Constitutional powers of the Legislative Department are more extensive, and cannot be limited with precision, so that it may, under certain circumstances, encroach upon its co-ordinate departments. Besides it has access to the pockets of the people, in laying taxes and making appropriations, and even exercises a prevailing influence over-the pecuniary rewards of those who compose the other two departments. He shows from the writings of KENT, STORY, MADISON and JEFFERSON, that the dangers of the usurpation by the Legislative, Departments, was apprehended even in the early period of the Republic, and it was for this reason our fathers separated with such care these respective branches, and provided that no one should exercise the powers of more than one at the same time. He next shows how limited the powers of the Judiciary. They have no patronage. They cannot punish without law; they can do nothing for themselves, etc., etc., and if they administer the laws corruptly, they are subjected to the powerof impeachment, whereas, with few conpower of impeachment, whereas, with few constitutional prohibitions, the powers of the Legislative are unlimited.

We cannot, of course, in the brief space of this column give more than the merest outline the merest of this splendid argument, and hope that all our readers will give it a careful perusal. True, the reasoning is addressed to deaf ears, and the strongest logic is lost upon men who consult only the promptings of their passions; still the President is right in putting his protest on record, and we hope that the sober, secondthought will yet gain the ascendancy over blind prejudice and party animosity.

YANKEES IN THE HOLY LAND.

A correspondent of the New York Tribune, writing from Beirut, Syria, November 23, states that a colony of one hundred and fifty-seven Americansmen, women and children-from Maine, had lately arrived at Jaffa, at the foot of Mount Carmel. A Mr. ADAMS-President ADAMS he styles himself-is the prime mover of this Yankee emigration. He organized the colony from members of a religious sect called the "Church of the Messiah," who hold, among other points of faith, that they are of the tribe of EPHRAIM, and that as the curse is now taken off from Palestine, the set time has come for the Lost Ten Tribes to return to their land. In a recent sermon he stated that the present colony of one hundred and fifty-seven are only the vanguard

SOLUBLE PACIFIC GUANO.

THE COMPOSITION OF THIS GUANOIS IDEN-TICAL WITH PERUVIAN. IT DIFFERS .T. ONLY IN THE PROPORTIONS OF THE SAME ELEMENTS. WHILE IT CONTAINS LESS AMMONIA, IT HAS WHILE IT CONTAINS LESS AMMONIA, TI HAS been been contained to the control of which is immediately soluble. Its effects on Cotton the past season have, in many instances, excelled Peruvian Guano. It has in no case proved less active in the early growth of the crop. When drought intervenes the crop does not suffer from its use is is the case with Peruvian Guano. By reason of the presence in it of so large aper cent of Phosphate of Lime its use improves the soil to an extent that cannot be realised from Peruvian Guano.

Peruvian Guano.

Every cargo of this Guano is subjected to rigid inspection analysis, and is sold on a basis of actual value.
